

Restaurant Inuk

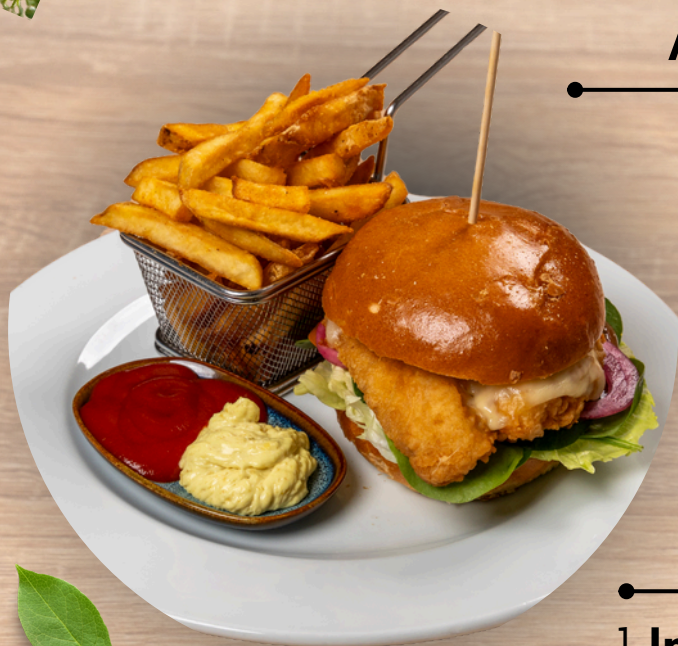

Inuit beliefs were center on animism, the idea that all things, living and non-living, possess a spirit or soul. These spirits, known as Inua, are believed to persist after death and can be found in people, animals, objects, and even natural elements. Respect for these spirits, as well as adherence to traditions and rituals, are crucial for maintaining balance and harmony in life. Sustainability and respecting the nature was the center in their daily life. If they don't respect the nature, the hunters and society will get punished by "Mother of the Sea" (Sassumap arnaa) where she would take all the animals from them. Therefore, we honour our ancestors and The Mother of the Sea in Restaurant Inuk by using blue menucards (color of the sea and heaven) and some course since we serve greenlandic local food. We named therefore our cabins with the names of the animals: Nanoq (polarbear), Tuttu (Reindeer), Puisi (seal) and Umimmak (Muskox).
